The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore .003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0.6° higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0.6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beekley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; a dew.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 2nd September, 1897 :

NO. 12 OF 1897.

A Bill to further amend the Stage-Carriages Act, 1861.

WHEREAS it is expedient to further amend of 1861. the Stage-Carriages Act, 1861; It is hereby enacted as follows :

1. This Act may be called the Stage-Carriages Act (1861) Amendment Act, 1897.
Short title.

2. The proviso to section 1 of the Stage-Carriages Act, 1861, is repealed.
of 1861. Repeal of proviso to section 1, Act XVI. 1861.

3. After section 20 of the said Act the following section shall be added, Addition of new section after section 20, namely: Act XVI, 1861.

"20 A. (1) The Local Government may, by notification in the local official gazette, make rules to carry out the purposes and objects of this Act in the territories under its administration or any part of the said territories.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may—

(a) prescribe forms for licenses under this Act, and the conditions on which they may be granted, and the cases in which they may be revoked;

(b) provide for the inspection of stage-carriages; and

(c) regulate the number and length of the stages for which horses may be driven in stage-carriages and the manner in which they shall be harnessed and yoked.

(3) In making any rule under this section the Local Government may direct that a breach thereof shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE application of the Stage-Carriages Act, 1861 (XVI of 1861), is, by the proviso to section 1, limited to carriages ordinarily used for journeys of more than twenty miles. This restriction has been found to be inconvenient, as stage-carriages which ought to be subject to regulation, not infrequently ply for shorter distances, and it is, therefore, proposed, by clause 2 of the Bill, to repeal the proviso above referred to.

2. The Act has also been found defective in practice owing to the absence of any rule-making power by means of which to supplement its provisions. Experience has demonstrated the necessity for auxiliary rules to regulate such matters of detail as the length of the stages for which a horse may be driven in a licensed carriage, and, generally, to guide the executive in carrying the law into effect. Clause 3 of the Bill is designed to confer the necessary power in this respect on the Local Government.

The exports of rice from Calcutta to foreign ports declined from 97,225 cwts. in the last 10 days of August 1896 to 28,232 cwts. in the period under report. The decline was chiefly due to the absence in 1897 of shipments to Trinidad, Reunion, and Mauritius, to which ports 69,784 cwts. were exported during the 10 days ending 31st August 1896. The despatches to Ceylon showed an increase of 3,507 cwts., and those to the United Kingdom a decrease of 3,430 cwts. The decrease under gram and pulses was chiefly due to the cessation of exports to Mauritius and Reunion, which took 7,926 cwts. in the corresponding period of 1896, and the exports to the United Kingdom showed a falling off of 7,534 cwts.

As regards Indian ports, the exports of rice during the last 10 days of August 1896 amounted to 5,822 cwts., against 2,765 cwts. in the period under report. The shipments for Bombay amounted to only 707 cwts., against 4,744 cwts. in the last 10 days of August 1896. Under gram and pulses there was a decrease in the shipments to Bombay and to the ports in Madras and Burma.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

During the week under report, the total imports of rice into Chittagong amounted to 9,133 cwts., of which 9,010 cwts. came from Burma against 1,288 cwts. in the same period of 1896. In the case of exports Calcutta and Narayanganj together received 2,204 cwts. against nil in the corresponding period of last year. Owing chiefly to larger supplies of wheat from Calcutta, the import trade of Balasore ports improved by 419 cwts.; and the export trade increased, owing to larger consignments of rice to Calcutta, by 62,814 cwts. In the absence of despatches of rice to Colombo, the export trade of Cuttack and Puri declined by 2,045 cwts. and 2,761 cwts. respectively.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF AUGUST 1897.

WEATHER during August was of an unusually uniform character. There were no disturbances either over the Bay or the province, and no marked break in the rains. Cloudy, showery weather continued in all districts, but not entirely without variation, there being two periods of maximum and two of minimum falls, during the latter of which only scattered showers fell in places. The two former periods occurred about the beginning and middle of the month, the two latter between the 8th and 14th and towards the end of the month.

During the first and third weeks, when rainfall was more plentiful, there was comparatively low pressure over the north of the province. The steep pressure gradient, which at the same time prevailed over the Bay, caused a strongish monsoon, and, in consequence, a free supply of moist air was moving over the land. The precipitation was partly maintained by the irregular pressure changes which occurred from day to day, and gave rise to the variations in the wind circulation, to which during settled weather rainfall is largely due.

When rainfall was more scanty during the second and fourth weeks, the area of lowest pressure was transferred southwards—in the first case to Orissa and in the second to the Circars. During these weeks a more steady easterly current prevailed over the province, and the monsoon being deflected westward across the north of the Bay, conditions were less favourable for rainfall at inland stations. But, as stated above, rainfall only partially ceased, and there were very few days on which it was not recorded at more than half the number of registering stations.

On two occasions pressure changes were rather larger than at other times, and there were then indications of the existence and movement of very shallow depressions. The first probably crossed the north of the Bay, but did not show as a distinct depression till it was over Orissa on the 7th, when there was a defect in pressure of more than  $\cdot 1$  inch on the west coast of the Bay as far south as Masulipatam. The rise of pressure, which was then general over Bengal, forced the area of lowest pressure westward or south-westward, and led to the commencement of the first period of lighter rainfall. The second began on the 17th with a moderate fall of pressure in the south of Burma and a brisk rise in Bihar. It was very indistinct during the two following days, but it moved north-westward, across the north of the Bay into Bengal, and became better defined in Bihar on the 19th, when, after a brisk fall of pressure, there was defect of about  $\cdot 05$  inch. Though these changes never led to any great variation from the normal, still the excess in the south of the Bay and defect in the north gave rise to rather steep gradients over the Bay and the south of the province with conditions very favourable for rainfall. Though this very shallow depression did not cause the renewal of general rain, it was the main cause of the continuance of the rainfall till after the end of the third week, and the heaviest falls of the month were during its passage across Bengal and Bihar, especially the latter, on the 19th.

On the 23rd pressure again began to fall in the south of Burma. The fall then became general over the whole area, and afterwards was confined to the Madras coast and the south-west of the Bay, with the result that a considerable defect accumulated over that area. The pressure gradient became less steep, the monsoon current was weaker over the province, and the second period of light rainfall began, continuing till the end of the month.

At the beginning of the month pressure was between  $\cdot 1$  and  $\cdot 15$  inch below the normal over the province, defect diminishing towards the south of the Bay when it was very small. The consequent steep gradient gave winds over the Bay somewhat above the average strength. As at the same time winds were westerly in Bihar and Chota Nagpur, conditions were favourable for rain over the province, especially in the eastern districts, where falls of between 2 and 4 inches were not unfrequent. Except that defect became smaller over Bengal without much change in the general distribution, the general weather conditions remained much the same as on the 1st, till the 5th, when a brisk fall of pressure set in over the north of the Bay continuing more slowly on the 6th, when readings were lowest in Orissa. The irregular, and in places rapid, rise on the 7th led to a very shallow depression over Orissa and a more regular circulation of easterly winds over the province. The shallow depression moved off to the west, but the distribution retained almost the same features till the 15th, when a rapid rise of pressure over the north of the Bay caused a displacement of the area of lowest pressure from Orissa to the west of Bihar. It was during these days, from the 7th to the 15th, that rainfall was lighter and more scattered than during the first few days of the month. With the area of lowest pressure in Bihar, the moist current was more towards the north and rainfall again became general, though not usually heavy, over the whole province.

The shallow depression which began on the 17th in the south of Burma and moved quickly north-westward reaching Bihar on the 19th, led to well marked monsoon conditions over the whole province for some days, with general rainfall which was heaviest in East and North Bengal on the 21st and 22nd, when falls of from 2 to 4 inches occurred. The brisk fall of pressure prevailing during the passage of the depression was followed by a brisk rise on the 20th, but immediately afterwards the fall of pressure began in Burma, and extending westwards across the south of the Bay caused the low pressure in the south-west during the last week of the month. This change was in process between the 23rd and 25th, when the fall in the south of the Circars was more than  $\cdot 1$  inch, and defect in the north of Madras was about 14 inch. This arrangement was better defined on the 26th, when a brisk rise over Bengal and a moderate fall in the extreme south-west of the Bay resulted in readings being lowest over the Circars. On the 27th lowest pressure was still further south, after which the recovery began owing to a rise in the south-west of the Bay and a fall in the north of the province. But the main features of the distribution remained till the end of the month, and were shown by the very uniform readings over the west of the province and the west of the Bay. From the 28th till the end of the month winds remained easterly over the province and south or south-east over the north of the Bay, and the consequent westerly deflection of the monsoon current was attended by lighter rainfall at inland stations, as during the previous partial break, however, light showers were of almost daily occurrence over a great part of the province.

Owing to the occurrence of only the faintest possible depression, conditions were unusually settled over the Bay, there being no case of stormy or even squally weather.

Pressure.—Underwent no large changes, but ones of moderate amount were more frequent than usual. The area of lowest pressure oscillated between the south-west and north of the province, and towards the end of the month was displaced further south than is usual in August. As a period of deficient readings was followed by one with a similar excess, the means for the whole month are practically normal over the whole province, only a few of the western stations having a difference of more than 01 inch.

Temperature.—During the first and third weeks, when cloudy weather with general rain prevailed, temperature was below the normal, and during the second and fourth weeks, when the rainfall was more partial, there was generally excess; but the difference from the normal was rarely more than 2°. In consequence, the means for the month are very nearly normal, the difference for maximum readings varying from excess of half a degree in the north-east to defect of similar amount in the south-west, and there being for minimum readings a general small excess. Mean temperature for the large divisions differs from the normal by not more than a fifth of a degree, except in North Bengal.

Rainfall.—Owing to the general favourable conditions and the absence of cyclonic storms, the distribution has been unusually uniform over the whole province. In East Bengal there fell on an average 3.44 inches more than the normal, but in all the other divisions the difference from the normal was less than 1 inch. In South-West Bengal there was excess of about 1 inch, and elsewhere defect varying from a third of an inch in North Bengal and Bihar, to about 1 inch in Chota Nagpur.

The falls as reported from the various stations are more regular than usual, but there are still variations, especially in Bihar and North Bengal. Over the greater part of North Bihar there has been a deficient fall, the defect being less than 5 inches, except in the greater part of Champaran and part of Muzaffarpur, where defect is between 5 and 7 inches. In North Bengal there has been a similar arrangement, excess in the south and defect elsewhere, increasing towards the north and generally between 5 and 10 inches in Jalpaiguri and Cooch Bihar. The difference from the normal is generally small in other parts, especially where there is a deficiency and over the greater part of Eastern and Central Bengal there is a small to moderate excess above 5 inches at only a few scattered stations.

The comparison of the actual rainfall in the various large divisions of the province with the normal is most accurately and conveniently shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall for the month, calculated in this way, are included in the table below under the heading of August. This table really gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each meteorological division, the first eight columns giving the actual average rainfalls in each division in each month expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the ninth column gives the total rainfall for the first eight months expressed as a percentage of the normal rainfall for that period:—

The following table gives full data for comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of August in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 25 years: the second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district: the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage : the fourth column states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied from the normal :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beekley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; Δ, dew.
